Statement of Facts – presented from Charging Party; Chris Reichert

I was referred to Aramark through an agency, Labor Ready and then I was then hired by Aramark.

Upon hire I submitted eligible work documents, from the list of acceptable documents, in this case a drivers license and an original birth certificate. They retained a photocopy for their records. After six months of working there, I was informed that I needed to provide a SS card. I told them the number, and then said I would obtain a physical copy from the SSA office.

I then went to the SSA office in Rapid City and obtained a letter that I had applied for the reissuance of my original ss#, a social security card. I brought this letter to them and they stated they still needed the SS card. Several months later, they again asked for a card, I stated I didn't have one, and provided them with a second letter from the SSA office, since I had not received a card from them. I gave Aramark the letter and they stated a SSA card(drivers license sized card with a printed number on it, was acceptable), I then restated, I had provided them with alternated identification documentation from the government printed list of acceptable documents; i.e. a driver license and birth certificate. Then on November 9th, they terminated my full-time employment.
